There are so many resources available from the IDOE regarding the content on iLearn, but what about writing practice and instruction specifically? How do we modify our writing instruction to meet the demand placed on students with short constructed response as well as the performance task essay? Are we stretching our students to become critically complex readers, writers, speakers, and listeners? In this workshop, we will explore the best practices in ELA ILEARN writing instruction and lesson planning to create iLearn writing tasks, activities, and lessons to best prepare our students.

The Learning Intentions are:

- Explore DOK and the 3 levels of learning: surface, deep and transfer learning as well as text complexity.
- Examine and apply the rubrics for short constructed as well as performance tasks
- Delve into reading, writing, speaking/listening strategies to promote problem solving and critical thinking in students so students can share their thinking on ILEARN.
