Have you been 1:1 to a few years now and don't know how effective you've been or where to go to next? Are you using eLearning Days or do you want to eventually utilize them for inclement weather or professional learning? How can you evaluate and ensure that your digital initiative is truly transformational on teaching and learning? Learn how to analyze systems and rubrics to see how effective you are utilizing technology in teaching and learning. See how these all can impact student achievement and innovate your school learning environment in a digital age.

Workshop Agenda:

- Learn how to analyze systems and rubrics to see how effective you are utilizing technology in teaching and learning
- Overview strategies and practices to improve your current program
- Evaluate current eLearning days and/or learn how to apply for eLearning days
- Network and share ideas with colleagues from other district

Presenter:

Duke Lines, CIESC Innovation Learning Specialist

- Former teacher, PLC leader, instructional coach, dean of students, administrator
- Certified Google Educator & Trainer
- Utilizes technology to increase student achievement with a focus on quality instruction
- Presented at local, state, and national conferences such as IASP, ICE, and AdvancED.
